Hello, thank you for visiting Sage-ness!

Our Montessori-inspired learning environment prioritizes cultural immersion. Teaching my kids our mother tongue from India has been challenging given the limited availability of traditional, hands-on resources. This and many of my other materials & products were created as cultural learning resources for my kids to use at home. My passion and hope for passing on our language and Indian culture to the next generation is that it will bring us all a little closer together as a family, society and as humans. I am sharing this printable in hopes that it is a valuable addition to your families learning resources and cultural experience!

Please respect the terms listed below, so we can continue to produce and share learning materials for everyone to use. Also, if you see any mistakes in our materials, please kindly let us know!

Get into the spirit of Diwali and have your kids create their own Rangoli design! This DIY Rangoli design will allow your child to create his/her own Rangoli. Follow the provided template or use it as an inspiration to create your own. Traditionally, Rangoli designs are made using a variety of materials such as colored powder, flowers and grains. You can use whatever colorful options you have available to create your beautiful Rangoli design.

Step 1: Print page 5 & 6 of this printable (look for the print logo)

Step 2: Cut out the 2 parts to the design & stick together to create one large Rangoli design on a flat & stable surface

Step 3: Select grains similar to the ones in the design below or other grains you may have at home. Allow your child to fill in the design using the template OR add your own creativity

Step 4: Optionally, you can apply a thin layer of glue to the print out to secure the grains as your child creates the design. We prefer to keep the grains loose (without glue), so we can do the activity a few more times before creating our final design.

Step 4: Find a place in your home or at the front of your house to display your beautiful work of art!

Here is what the design will look like once you print, cut and stick it together:
